SAILING ON LADY WASHINGTON

THE MOST UNIQUE WEDDING VENUE IN WASHINGTON

Recently we revisited one of Washington's secret gems of a wedding and special event venue.

The Lady Washington Tall Ship. My college roommate Mark and his wife Karen were married on Lady Washington 10 years ago. We all went back last month for an anniversary celebration cruise.

As you can see from the photos on the right Lady Washington is a wooden sailing ship from the 1800's. A cruise includes sailing the harbor to get a feel for what it was like and the physical effort it took to sail such a ship.

The ship is 117 feet and sleeps 20 crew. All the ropes for the sails take a bunch of room so it's best for a small group charter of 30 or so.

The smell of the salt water and sounds of the crew hoisting sails is a unique experience for everyone. We are big fans of destination weddings and this ship gives you a fun and exotic feel.

We recommend it as a great alternative venue for your special event. You can find out more information at historicalseaport.org/

When I Choose An Attorney To Represent My Bicycle Injury Case, What Do I Look For?

Every year in the United States, thousands of bicyclists are injured—and hundreds killed—in traffic accidents. For those injured cyclists and their families, finding the right attorney to represent their interests with investigators, opposing counsel, insurance companies, and the court is essential if they hope to get full and fair compensation for their injuries or losses. But how are people supposed to find the right lawyer to represent them in a bicycle injury case? Follow this simple checklist to find someone right for you:

LOOK FOR EXPERIENCE

Every lawyer receives training that might allow them to practice different types of law, such as family law, criminal defense, or personal injury. Receiving an introduction to the subject in law school is no match for years of trial-tested experience in court, however. Further, laws regarding traffic, roads, and bicycles are different from state to state, so it is essential to find an attorney who is licensed and routinely practices in Washington state.

LOOK FOR COURAGE

When you select an attorney to represent your interests, you need someone who will not back down—someone who is willing to go to court and fight hard to get their client the fair judgment and generous compensation they deserve. Some lawyers are nervous about going to trial where they will have to go toe-to-toe with legal representation for the defendant or from big insurance companies; they may even encourage their client to accept a small settlement to avoid the courtroom. Make sure the attorney you choose has a reputation for not accepting anything but the full and fair compensation their client deserves, even if it means going to court.

LOOK FOR GOOD COMMUNICATION

Though a good bicycle accident attorney has years of experience representing injured cyclists, you probably do not have a lot of experience being an injured cyclist. It is essential, then, that your attorney takes the time to explain the law fully, honestly evaluate the strength of your case, listen to your thoughts and concerns, and stay in contact as your case proceeds. It helps a lot if they have experience riding bicycles as well and knows the language of the sport.

LOOK FOR CONFIDENCE

Following a bicycle accident, an injured cyclist faces a great deal of uncertainty. Will their injuries heal? Who is going to pay for their medical treatment? When will they be able to return to work? How can they afford an attorney and everything else at the same time?

When you choose an attorney to represent you, look for someone willing to stand behind their promise to fight hard for your interests. Look for an attorney who is willing to share the burden and the risk with their clients by accepting a fee for their work only if their client wins in court.

LOOK FOR A WINNING RECORD

Injured cyclists deserve good communication, experienced representation, and a confident partner when they look for an attorney to represent them, but the thing an injured cyclist needs most from their attorney is a win. When looking for someone to represent your bicycle personal injury claim, look for someone who can show you real, trial-tested results for clients for whom they stood up, fought hard, and won big.

LOOK NO FURTHER

Max Meyers Law has represented bicycle riders who were injured while riding, and they have won judgments and earned big settlements for those clients—an established firm with a winning record.

Fighting for the rights of bicyclists is more than a profession for Max Meyers, it is a personal mission. Meyers is an accomplished cyclist himself, taking part in the 200+ mile Seattle-to-Portland Bicycle Classic, cycling up Mount Rainier for 10,000 of total elevation gain, and pedaling across Washington, throughout the United States, and beyond. His commitment to injured cyclists is rooted in his passion for cycling. He even collected his best insights into bicycle safety, bicycle law, and legal recourse for injured bicyclists into a free book: Bicycle Accident Secrets Unlocked.

If you or a loved one have been injured while bicycling in Washington State, and you believe your injuries were caused by the neglect or recklessness of another, contact us at 425.276.7804 to schedule a free consultation to learn how Max Meyers can help you.

Shelly's RECIPE CORNER

ASIAN TURKEY MEATBALLS WITH GOCHUJANG GLAZE

Ingredients:

For the Gochujang Glaze:

- 1 tablespoon gochujang, check labels for gluten-free
- 1 teaspoon unseasoned rice vinegar
- 1 tablespoon reduced sodium soy sauce, use gluten-free soy sauce for GF
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon toasted sesame oil
- 1 small clove garlic, minced

Directions:

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Cover 1 large sheet pan with foil & lightly spray with oil. Combine glaze ingredients together in a small bowl.

For meatballs: Combine all ingredients from turkey to scallions (whites only) in a large bowl. Mix thoroughly.

Using your hands, form into 21 round meatballs, about 1 oz each. Place the meatballs, evenly spaced, on the prepared sheet pan. Baked for 20 minutes in the center of the oven.

- 1 teaspoon fresh minced ginger

For the meatballs:

- 1 pounds 93% lean ground turkey
- 2 garlic cloves, finely minced
- 1 teaspoon fresh minced ginger
- 2 tsp reduced sodium soy sauce, use gluten-free soy sauce for GF
- 1/4 cup panko bread crumbs, use gluten-free panko for GF

Photo and recipe courtesy of skinnytaste.com

- 1 large egg
- 2 scallions, chopped, white and green part separated

For Garnish:

- 2 teaspoons toasted sesame seeds
- scallion greens

Preheat the broiler on high and position the rack about 5 to 6 inches from the heat, second rack from the top. Brush the meatballs with glaze and broil about 2 to 3 minutes. Transfer to a platter and top with sesame seeds and scallions.

Serve with toothpicks as an appetizer or with rice if desired as a main dish.

The Winner of the 2021 MML College Scholarship!

Congratulations to Hunter Olmstead who won this year's $2,500 undergraduate College Scholarship.

Hunter wrote a great essay about his experience with car accident injuries after a family member was injured by a drunk driver in a bad car wreck. His experience seeing the impact serious injuries can have on a loved one's life has led him to a desire to help people as a career.

Hunter is a valedictorian of the 2021 class at Concrete High School. He plans to go to college and pursue a physical therapy degree. Although keeping his options open to also pursuing a career as an emergency responder in one form or another. We wish Hunter the greatest success as he enters college!

Thank you to all applicants. This was not an easy decision as we received numerous qualified applications. We commend all our applicants for their amazing accomplishments to date and are truly inspired.

We also truly thank every person that applied and wish them the best of luck in college and future endeavors.
