Wear Sunblock!

Sun Safety Tips for You & your Family

The warm sunny weather is finally here and many of us will be hitting the beach to play in the water and soak up some rays. PLEASE be sure to protect yourself while out in the sun! Max shared his skin cancer story last year in our newsletter and we felt it was a good time to share these 5 Sun Safety Tips with our readers as a reminder to take good care of yourselves out there this summer season.

hat will help you avoid overexposure to the sun and keep you cool. Just remember to choose a cover-up that actually blocks the sun, with a thicker fabric or built-in sun protection. If you don't have a cover-up, use a towel to block the sun. And protective sunglasses are always a smart beach accessory.

1 - HYDRATE OFTEN

Stay hydrated. Your body needs 64 ounces of water daily to function properly. If you are active in the heat, your body produces more sweat to regulate your body temperature and therefore needs more water. Packing frozen water bottles keeps your liquids cool and doubles as a cooler for snacks. Also remember that beer and sodas are diuretics and can cause dehydration.

4 - FIND THE SHADE

You can be in the shade and still enjoy the beach. Bring a pop-up tent or umbrella so that your family, especially kids, have a place to escape from the sun. In addition to sun protection, shade helps reduce your chance of overheating.

2 - REAPPLY SUNSCREEN

You know you should wear sunscreen, but even more important is that you apply it throughout the day and after you get out of the water. The recommended standard by the American Academy of Dermatology is to reapply every two hours, including on your lips, and to apply more often after swimming or sweating.

5 - PRACTICE WATER SAFETY

Stay aware of your surroundings and follow these precautions:

- Find your lifeguard. Know where the lifeguard is - or if your beach has one. You might not think of it until you need one, so it's best to look ahead.
- Know your flags. Different states have different colored flags to indicate ocean beach conditions, from rip tides to the presence of dangerous sea life. If you aren't sure what the flag colors mean, check with the lifeguard.
- Check the weather. It may sound silly, but it's smart to know about pending storms and sea conditions. Avoid the beach if there's lightning.
- If you don't know how to swim, wear a life jacket. And never go it alone - always have a buddy at the beach.

3 - WEAR A COVER-UP

Unfortunately, no sunscreen blocks all of the sun's harmful rays, and salt and heat can take a toll on your skin. Wearing a cover-up and

Oh No! Someone's Dog Bit You. Now WHAT?

Did you know we at Max Meyers Law handle dog bite cases? Being bitten by a dog is a scary and painful event. Injuries can range from almost nothing to permanent, disabling injuries. Children are especially vulnerable to serious injuries (often to the face) from dog bites. Many people don't know what to do after a dog bite and who is responsible for what.

Washington State law protects people from vicious dogs and makes their owners pay for the harm they cause. Our state protects dog bite victims by making the animal's owner financially liable. There is no free first bite. The owner is responsible in almost all circumstances. The main exception is if you provoke the dog which results in the bite, then you may be at fault.

The owner can be liable in situations like these:

- You were walking, running, or otherwise present in a public area, such as on a sidewalk, street or park.
- You were on the job performing your required tasks, like delivering mail or packages or reading a water or electric meter, whether you were on private or public property at the time of the attack.
- You were on your own property or legally present on anyone else's property.

WHAT DAMAGES DOES THE DOG OWNER HAVE TO PAY?

Any out of pocket expenses like:

- All reasonable medical expenses related to the injury, including plastic and reconstructive surgery. Dog bites can be disfiguring, and people often need and want to remove or minimize the scars. The emergency room, doctors, surgical, hospital, physical and occupational therapy and other medical costs are compensable.
- Lost wages if you missed work because of the injury, surgeries, therapy, and recuperation time. As well as pain and suffering type damages such as:
- Physical pain

- Mental suffering and anguish
- Post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), which many dog bite victims suffer
- Disfigurement
- Loss of enjoyment of life, if the experience causes you to be unable to do things you used to enjoy, like going for walks or riding your bike, out of fear of being attacked again.

DOG BITES AND HOMEOWNER'S INSURANCE

Many homeowner's insurance policies cover dog bites. This is the most common source of recovery. If the person whose dog bit you does not have homeowner's insurance that will pay your damages, we can help you explore other options for recovering compensation for your damages.

GETTING LEGAL HELP FOR A DOG BITE

You do not have to puzzle through the legal technicalities to determine whether you have a viable case if you've been bitten by a dog.

All you need to do is call us here at Max Meyers Law 425-276-7804. We will explain your legal options. Remember, you pay no fees until you get compensation.

Shelly's RECIPE CORNER

RASPBERRY JELL-O SALAD

This is one of Richard's favorite summer treats... give it a try!

Ingredients:

- 3 (4 ounce) package raspberry Jell-O
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup thawed raspberries
- 1 cup applesauce
- 1 cup sour cream
- 8 oz cool whip
- Fresh raspberries

Directions:

Stir together the Jell-O and boiling water until the powder is all dissolved. Add the raspberries and applesauce and stir carefully until combined. Pour into an 8x9 inch pan.

Chill the Jell-O for 3 hours until set.

Spread the cool whip on top of the Jell-O. Top with lots of fresh raspberries.
